June's Book of the Month

Book: The Cellist of Sarajevo

Author: Steven Galloway

Type: Fiction

Date: Wed. Jun. 10 at 7:30 pm

At once a beautiful, small story and a universal cry, 'The Cellist of Sarajevo' portrays four strangers who do what they must to survive the destructive shelling of their beloved city and way of life. One man plays his precious cello in the town square where 22 good people have just been shot and where bullets constantly fly. A young woman, rebelling against a hate she doesn't understand, becomes a crackerjack sniper. And, two men risk their lives each time they go for food and water.

This remarkable story takes us behind the daily soul-numbing headlines of death and destruction, and lets us feel in our hearts what it is like to live under siege and the constant threat of death. It is a beautifully written novel which speaks to the very core of humanity.
